

Dimitri Kieffer: "I was progressing through a steep icy ravine and frozen cascade. I saw there some relatively fresh bigger bear prints! Surely not a place where I wanted to meet [a bear]!"
courtesy Dimitri Kieffer (live over Contact5), SOURCE

Human power circumnavigation update: Dimitri Kieffer without a gun in brown bear territory

EMAIL PRINT SHARE

TEXT
Posted: Apr 21, 2011 08:06 pm EDT

SUBSCRIBER CONTENT PREVIEW
FOR FULL STORY: LOGIN OR SUBSCRIBE NOW - UP TO 3 MONTHS FREE

(By Correne Coetzer/ story corrected May 31)
Dimitri Kieffer is closing in on his destination with water/river crossings, potential bear encounters and potential annoying rain ahead. It has been 47 days since he has left Paren on this three month section through Russia. Lately he has been traveling mostly up the Shirokaya River. Night travel on the river is a bit risky, he reports, as it has deep crevasses that need to be seen and avoided. He and his sled crawled and grinded up a steep pass. Fresh brown bear tracks greeted...

LINKS

- Previous Human power circumnavigation update: Kieffer and Bushby racing against time, bears and melting rivers
- Dimitri Kieffer Nexus Expeditions blogspot
- Karl Busby website

CLICK HERE TO CONTINUE READING

0 comments

★ 0

Newest

No one has commented yet.

DISQUS

Comment feed

Subscribe via email

EMAIL PRINT SHARE

TEXT

View Larger Map

EXPEDITION
TECH WEEK
2013

Jan 16-23