

Whatever drives you,
find your perfect car at driving.co.uk

THE  TIMES

Others

Welcome to your preview of The Times

Subscribe now

Former paratrooper held after walking across Bering Strait

From Jeremy Page in Moscow
Published at 12:00AM, April 4 2006

A former paratrooper attempting to walk around the world was being questioned by Russian security services today after becoming the first Briton to cross the ice bridge from Alaska to Russia on foot.

Karl Bushby, 36, was detained by the Federal Security Service (FSB) after reaching Russia on Friday, halfway through a 36,000-mile walk from South America to Britain that he began in 1998.

FSB border guards also detained Dimitri Kieffer, a 40-year-old endurance runner with French and US citizenship who joined Mr Bushby for the two-week trek across the 55-mile Bering Strait.

The Strait was a no-go area during

👍 Post a comment

🖨️ Print

Share via

📘 Facebook

🐦 Twitter

👤 Google+

Sponsored Editorial

Malta
Pastizzi amid the
pastiche

Malta today is a seductive mix of culture and style, finds Tony Dawe

Want the full article and instant website access?

THE  TIMES
THE SUNDAY TIMES

The Digital Pack Sale extended

Now £2 a week!

Find Jobs | Motors | Property | Holidays

Search all Jobs

Litigation Lawyers  Employment Lawyers